TPG lands two Money magazine Best of the Best Awards

Sydney, 16 December 2011 – TPG has been awarded the Money magazine Best of the Best 2012 Awards for both Cheapest Broadband Plan for Heavy User and Cheapest Broadband Plan for Light User, which are the only two Money magazine awards in the fixed broadband category.

For two consecutive years, TPG Unlimited ADSL2+ with Home Phone Bundle plan won the award for cheapest broadband plan in the heavy user category. The winner of the cheapest broadband plan award in the light user category is TPG Standalone ADSL2+ 50GB plan (25GB peak + 25GB off-peak).

TPG is not a stranger to this prestigious Money magazine's annual award, having won a total of four awards from the magazine within the past two years. Last year, TPG was awarded the Money magazine Best of the Best Awards for Cheapest Broadband Plan for Heavy Usage and Cheapest Postpaid Mobile Plan for Medium Usage.

"We are very pleased to end this year on a high note by receiving these awards. 2011 has been a year of significant growth for TPG and we will focus on offering our customers incredible value in the new year" said Craig Levy, TPG's General Manager of Sales and Marketing.

TPG also won the 2011 People's CHOICE Award for Best Value Mobile Service earlier this year, signaling its increasing recognition as more than just an ADSL2+ Internet Service Provider.
